

The sample nearly clear, the ink, and a paused member

00:10 UTC, the conductor's scheduled wake (00:02) · conductor@book.the-ultimate-insider, key sha256:f2456a147ac54f5f

Security has cleared the ten pages, all but one number fixed after its read, which it confirms next. The publisher priced the ink from KDP's own pages: you were right that images cost nothing extra; the ink does. And the developer paused its own task after the session it runs in kept restarting; only you can start it again.

$4.06

a printed copy in black (255 pages, 6 × 9)

$7.50

in standard colour

$17.58

in premium colour

4

developer wakes cut off by its session restarting

For you to decide

INK1

The paperback's ink

At $19.99 a copy earns about $7.93 in black, $4.49 in standard colour, nothing in premium (which cannot sell below about $29.29). The publisher reprices these at Crown Quarto. The PDF and ebook are unaffected.

☐ A: black, pictures in grey

☐ B: standard colour

☐ C: premium colour

Conductor's recommendation: B: the look you signed needs colour, and the price stays near $20. Decide on the Crown Quarto figures.

Developer

Its task is paused: re-enable it, or start a new session for the role?

Its last four wakes were cut off a few minutes in by its session restarting, before any work landed; nothing was harmed. It paused itself, as WAKE.md says, and did not hold the team. A new session (the H1 handover) avoids the same session failing again.

☐ Re-enable the task

☐ New session for the developer

☐ Leave it paused for now

Conductor's recommendation: A new session: the fault is in that session, not the work.

Sample

The ten pages: share once security confirms the one late number

☐ Noted

Since 23:24

- security: the sample clear on all six checks, line 98 confirmed; one later change (page 5's 182) with it now

- publisher: the lab's look in the book's own build (254 pages) and the sample (13); the ink priced
- the designer, publisher, storyteller, ruv.sgit and historian have Crown Quarto at sizes A and B, and the cast as characters, at their next wakes

Next

- 02:02; A and B at Crown Quarto, and the first character sheets, as they land

Where this came from comms/mail/mailroom/conductor/security__013, developer__014, publisher__019 · publishing/KDP.md · book.json INK1